“ Frances and Diane,

I was traveling to Ann Arbor this morning, and as usual took the morning paper to read on my flight. I was saddened to read of John's passing. When my wife Linda passed, about 5 1/2 years ago, he was at the service, and I never got to speak to him. It meant a great deal to me to see him there. I am certain that you are holding on to the great times you had together. I think of you often, as were all getting older. If there is anything I can do to help in any fashion, please reach out to me.

I am sorry for your loss.

So sorry to see the passing of John. I always enjoyed seeing and talking to him. He was a fine gentleman with good wit and common sense intelligence. He will be missed.

I wish you peace during this difficult time.

“ To: Fran Duvall and family:

Reading John's obituary just now brought back many pleasant memories when we were neighbors on Meadowbrook Road. Scooter would be out checking on the comings and goings of folks on the street and barking at strangers and people jogging by. We met there to pass the time of day, mentioned how nice your house and yard looked. We were new on the block, and you and John were kind enough to welcome us and teach us the ropes. Now we are among the oldest residents and we try to welcome newcomers as you did. John was a very remarkable man. He went off to work early in the morning. He once told me that he had had a job which had provided a good retirement pension, but then something happened and the pension was gone. That is why at his age he was still working full time as a manager in a nearby company. He was smart and not one to give up. We know that you are missing him very much.

Please accept our condolences at this time as John makes the great transition to the next chapter.

Fondly,

Charles and Marga Lane
