“ I'm Jo Murphy. Joy was my best friend back in the day. We would go to Jack's in Millersville, PA. She and I would get into trouble. We'd never get caught. I was showing Joy how to sneak up on someone at Walmart. I was in the ARMY. I took a box of condoms and snuck it in the basket of a girl in the Lancaster Catholic high school uniform. I put it in the basket and her mom was wondering where that came from. We'd laugh around the corner. We would put m&m candy on layaway. I'll miss you Joy, but I share these stories with my wife and son here in North Carolina.

“ I am devastated..I just found out about this. I doubt Lyn and the sisters remember me but Joy was my first serious relationship back in 95 an 96 school year. She was a beautiful old soul that loved her family and friends. She had a great sense of humor and loved helping and making people laugh. My condolences to the whole family. I'm sure she's watching over all of us. Shaun Fisher

“ To my sweet sister and her beautiful daughters- The loss of Joy overpowers my heart. You raised the most kind, sincere women now. I will remember them together--giggling, laughing at everything as secrets they only shared. I love you all dearly- Aunt Jean.

“ I remember when Joy wanted to start school so badly, she wasn't old enough but insisted we wait for the school bus. She was mad when the driver didn't stop. She was so happy on her first day of kindergarten, and she could go to school.

ME

Joy was my best friend and work mate for the past 7 years. She was the most caring, sweet and funny woman I have ever met. She knew when I was stressed at work and would ask if she could send me some funnies to make me laugh. She would send funny cartoons via our cell phones. I still go back thru them, and they still make me laugh. She sent me a special blanket when I was off work having hip surgery. Written on the blanket were all positives including family, happiness, sweet dreams, blessings and be yourself. I cherish that blanket. Over the years she would send me things and I her things. One time I wanted to send her some meat. I got it ready to send overnight frozen to her. It did arrive shortly, but it was thawed, but quite cold. Joy had to cook it all up at once.

Another time she sent me a plague that said, "good morning, let the stress begin" and I hung it in front of my desk. Joy said she had a similar one in her kitchen.

She loved her dogs and sent me pics of them. Sheriff was the sweetest boy and had a great temperament, thanks to Joy raising him. She nursed her "torty" (tortoise shell color) cat to a ripe old age. I also have a torty cat and we shared conversation on our pets. Joy said she would dry some seeds from her yard to send me so I could plant them in my yard.

I planted 2 trees in my yard, one to commemorate Joy and one for me in the last 2 weeks. As she was my "wing man" and I was hers at work. Joy was fiercely protective of the people she loved.

When we figured out a case one of us would always say "two heads are better than one."

I sent her pics of making potato salad for my grandkid's grad party this past year. I way over made salad and we laughed about what to do with 50 lbs of potato salad!

I loved her dearly. I will never forget her and think of her every day. She was the best teammate anyone could have. I know she is finally free.
